

Landscape and Mountain Photography Workshop

Canmore, Alberta

October 3th (eve) to 5th, 2008

The Alpine Club of Canada is pleased to offer a mountain and landscape photography workshop with renowned landscape photographer Richard Berry. The workshop consists of two exciting days of field trips, illustrated lectures and critiques of photographs taken during the weekend.

During the weekend, Richard will take you to his favourite locations, he will demonstrate the techniques that he uses and help each participant with technical and compositional questions. Richard doesn't believe in secrets. Discover the techniques, tools and compositional thinking that Richard has used to become an acclaimed photographer.

Richard's enthusiasm and teaching skills have resulted in a series of popular photography and Photoshop workshops that fill up quickly and include a lot of repeat customers and referrals.

The techniques that will be demonstrated in the field will be reinforced in the classroom.

Lectures will include:

- Composition. Understanding human perception to create memorable photographs.
- Using flash and reflectors
- Using graduated neutral density and polarizing filters.
- Making the most from your camera's functions.
- Travelling light. Take great photographs with minimal equipment

The workshop is not recommended for photographers who use a 'point and shoot' camera.

If you have a question about your suitability, please email Richard.

Richard's email: richard@richard-berry.com

This workshop is only open to nine participants and costs $425. The cost includes breakfasts and lunches. Please book now to avoid disappointment!

To book please contact Shelley Freeman at the Alpine Club of Canada

Telephone: 403 678 3200 x112

Email: adventures@alpineclubofcanada.ca

